1. It is becoming increasingly difficult for the military junta, which recently took control of El Salvador, to maintain popular enthusiasm, since it is now evident that there was no comprehensive governmental plan at the time of the coup d'etat. The abrogation of the constitution and the assumption of all powers of the state by the military junta are causing sharp criticism.
2. Public confidence has been shaken by reported disagreement within the junta as well as by the return of Communists to San Salvador. The public also fears the significance of the appointment of certain leftists to public office, and the prohibition of a labor demonstration on 19 December.
